Hengtian Builds Online Health Management Platform for a Client

Overview of the Client

The company was jointly established by alumni of Zhejiang University. The founders have an abundance of experience in Internet, Medical Health, and Finance. The team's goal is to build a top-notch user-friendly online health management platform.

Services Provided

The online health management platform will manage the user's daily data, which includes personal physiological data, workout data, and diet data. Hengtian will help the client to integrate pedometer functions within the platform, along with features such as weekly ranking rewards, personal health measurements (height, weight, blood pressure), medical report data access, and the ability to purchase check-up plans and schedule check-up reservations. These will help users to better maintain their own health as well as to help them build convenient, professional and workable individual health management platforms. The individual health management platform has already developed cooperative relationships with approximately 100 public hospitals, nursing homes, and checkup institutions in 50 cities across China. Moreover, the platform has accumulated many client resources. Both the enterprise and the individual will be able to purchase and reserve high quality, low price checkup plans through the platform.

Figure 1: The online health management platform pages

Highlights of the Hengtian Solution

- The platform is compatible with Android Phone, iPhone, and iPad

- Utilizing CoreGraphics and QuartzCore in iOS to achieve graphic rendering and animation so as to present the users' whole day step data in the form of graphic charts

- Utilizing backend steps service to record the whole day steps in Android as well as to achieve lane animation by using Android native paint, which stimulates walking   dynamically

- Integrating mainstream social media sharing function

- Utilizing jQuery to roll images seamlessly as well as to stimulate rotary speed of the real slot machines to distribute mock coins dynamically

Voice of the Client

The work efficiency and quality of the Hengtian staff has exceeded our expectations.

—Client Project Manager